DESCRIPTION: Parkland Restorative Justice (PRJ) is a community-based non-profit located on Treaty Six Territory in Prince Albert. We offer positive social support to inmates at the Saskatchewan Penitentiary, and recently released individuals reintegrating into the Parkland region and beyond. To do this we rely on volunteers to help us deliver our programming. We believe that human connection and positive social support is a basic need of all souls that leads to healing and restoration. By walking with those in our justice system we are helping to improve community safety and demonstrating that no one is disposable. Core to what we do are the values and principles found in restorative justice. We emphasize the following restorative practices in our programming:

- Providing social support to offenders while encouraging them to understand, accept, and carry out obligations.
- Encouraging collaboration and reintegration, rather than coercion and isolation in our justice system.
- Showing respect for all parties, including victims, offenders and justice colleagues.
- Involving and empowering the affected community through the justice process, while increasing its capacity to recognize and respond to the base of crime.

SPECIALIZED EMPLOYMENT

DESCRIPTION: Prince Albert Supported Employment (PASE) and Work Preparation Programs:

Vocational Counsellors work with participants to identify and reduce barriers to employment through practices that encourage, enhance, and empower personal responsibility towards action-oriented goals. Participant skills, interests, aptitudes and experiences determine their direction as short and long-term goals are identified. Viable action plans are developed and evaluated at each session. Where appropriate, employment supports such as specialized training, work assessments, job coaches and psycho-educational assessments are utilized to increase the likelihood of long-term employment. Job Finding Clubs offer opportunities for participants in a closed group setting to develop enhanced job search skills while benefiting from the support and encouragement of hunting in packs. Work Preparation is available to job seekers over 16 years of age interested in actively moving forward towards future employment. The PASE program is focused on helping people overcome barriers to employment due to disability.

Call Tyness at 306-953-4471 or Melanie at 306-953-4476 for Work Preparation

Call Regan at 306-953-4463 or Jody at 306-953-4486 for PASE

SPECIALIZED EMPLOYMENT

DESCRIPTION: Prince Albert Supported Employment (PASE) and Work Preparation Programs:

Vocational Counsellors work with participants to identify and reduce barriers to employment through practices that encourage, enhance, and empower personal responsibility towards action-oriented goals. Participant skills, interests, aptitudes and experiences determine their direction as short and long-term goals are identified. Viable action plans are developed and evaluated at each session. Where appropriate, employment supports such as specialized training, work assessments, job coaches and psycho-educational assessments are utilized to increase the likelihood of long-term employment. Job Finding Clubs offer opportunities for participants in a closed group setting to develop enhanced job search skills while benefiting from the support and encouragement of hunting in packs. Work Preparation is available to job seekers over 16 years of age interested in actively moving forward towards future employment. The PASE program is focused on helping people overcome barriers to employment due to disability.

Call Tyness at 306-953-4471 or Melanie at 306-953-4476 for Work Preparation
